How to get a conditional letter of acceptance at our Doctoral School

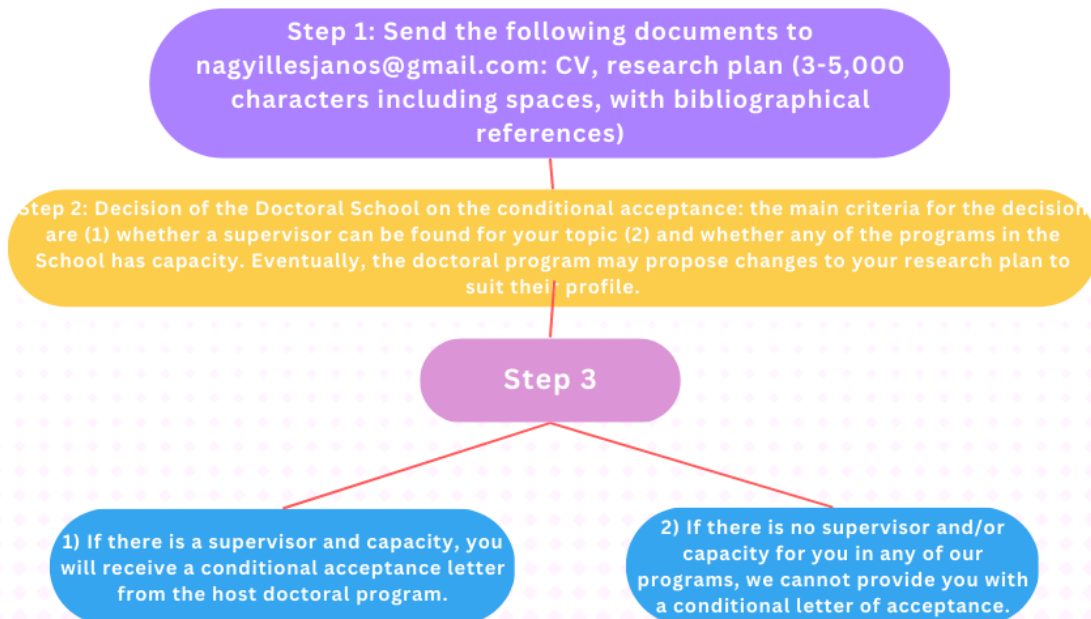

Our Doctoral School has several individual programs. When we receive your documents, it takes some time to check which program has a potential supervisor for you. We expect your application by the beginning of January. but it's best to apply earlier. Unfortunately, we cannot guarantee that we will be able to deal with applications that arrive later.

At this stage of the process, we will decide whether we can provide you with a conditional letter of acceptance. A conditional letter of acceptance can be provided if you meet our professional requirements and one of our doctoral programs has the capacity to supervise your topic.

Once you have a conditional acceptance letter, you will be entitled to participate in the program's online admission interview. The admission interview will be conducted on an individual basis at a time slot set for us. You will be informed of the date and time of the interview by the program itself after the application period has closed.

The procedure for obtaining a conditional letter of acceptance:

The procedure for obtaining a conditional letter of acceptance

Step 1: Send the following documents to nagyillesjanos@gmail.com: CV, research plan (3-5,000 characters including spaces, with bibliographical references)

Step 2: Decision of the Doctoral School on the conditional acceptance: the main criteria for the decision are (1) whether a supervisor can be found for your topic (2) and whether any of the programs in the School has capacity. Eventually, the doctoral program may propose changes to your research plan to suit their profile.

Step 3: 1) If there is a supervisor and capacity, you will receive a conditional acceptance letter from the host doctoral program.

Step 3: 2) If there is no supervisor and/or capacity for you in any of our programs, we cannot provide you with a conditional letter of acceptance.
